

WSCP Masterclass Safeguarding Young Babies & Infants

28th September feedback

Evaluations are based on 69 out of 122 attendee responses.

"

The masterclass was extremely interesting and informative and will be recommending this to colleagues. Good range of areas explored and very knowledgeable speakers. I deliver parent support sessions to parents and will be attending the SIDs course so I can include that in my learning with parents.

...the information was pitched. This whole training will absolutely benefit our team and will be directly implemented in to our day to day practice.

99

"

The masterclass was very informative, its a reminder to us all about our much needed multi agency work to safeguard babies. The statistics and facts are always alarming when you see them in stark reality, as we go about our daily lives. Its always lovely to hear guest speakers who are evidently passionate in their roles and this comes across when they share information. 99

"

All information was useful from all presentations. I found the information regarding assessing marks on young babies particularly useful for when completing home visits to families, as well as information relating to the role of fathers (individuals work with are majority male) and impact of parents mental health on emotional harm.

I found the training

really interesting and informative and would like to share

it with the Foster

Carers that I work with.

All very informative, and will transfer all information shared into my practice but particular Dr Pye's presentation as I was unaware that they now have a clinic that we can contact for advise. Useful to know, especially the information on birth marks.

"

Found the content useful in relation to their role

Attendee Retention

Have previously accessed WSCP prerecorded presentations

What would you like to hear more about in relation to safeguarding young babies?

- Identifying signs of physical and emotional abuse
- Updating legislation
- Services and support, preventative information
- Helping parents prepare for arrival of new baby and prevention of abuse prebirth
- Feedback from serious case reviews or lessons learnt. We can't change our practice if we are not aware on the coal face
- information available to young parents
- it's useful to hear what each CCG are doing to safeguard children
- I would like to learn more about developmental needs in relation to parenting by adults who have a learning need, the broader picture, the impact of this up to the age of 1 and over
- How to promote more responsive parenting
- How to differentiate abusive injuries from playful injuries
- Parental mental health and how it affects their children
- I am interested in the outcomes of serious case reviews and the learning from these across the multiagency network. It would also be useful to have a thorough understanding of how various agencies are involved in safeguarding children so that as a midwife I understand all agency perspectives and how they share information across the multidisciplinary team
- Physical responses to watch out for in home visits
- A little more on 3 to 4 years
- More on pre school age
- identifying bruises
- The process of referral
- Case studies
- Further details of signs of neglect
- Thresholds in CP
- The right questions to ask
- Any information we can pass on for our parents
- More information relating to abuse and neglect
- More about different childhood illness that we could come across that we may assume are safeguarding issues
- Perinatal mental ill health and paternal mental ill health affecting babies
- Process for Midwives documenting marks to new-born babies / New born planning and discharge in child protection. An 'across the board approach' as not all paediatricians are willing to offer an opinion
- Case studies and further training updates/masterclasses
- The process of child protection orders etc
- I work with people on probation, some of them who have committed offences against their children or who subjected their children to domestic abuse. I would be interested in information on how to help them understand how their behaviour impacted on their children even if the children are too young to communicate the harm they suffered
- Sexual abuse and how to identify this in very young babies
- Explained from the beginning, for example, what to look for, who is the first person we contact if we need to discuss. Is it our workplace policies or the local safeguarding board
- Resources to support families, infant mental health
- Experiences of missed opportunities and the actions taken
- How health professionals share info when there are concerns, who should they contact
- Case reviews and learning lessons from these. Any updated information such as journals to keep abreast of new findings and research in this area
- Parent friendly information to share with our families